MOST RECENT PHOTO OF THE REV. T. DE WITT TALMAGE.

Dr. Talmage was, next to Henry Ward Beecher, unquestionably the best known of the pulpit orators of America, and until his resignation from the pastorate of the Brooklyn Tabernacle in 1895 exerted a wide influence through his sermons and writings. Like so many other men who have made their mark in the world, Dr. Talmage was born of middle-class parents, who had the usual hand-to-mouth struggle with life in order to bring up their family. De Witt Talmage was the youngest of twelve children and was born at Bound Brook, N. J., January 7, 1832. His education was of a superior order, and he was the fourth brother to enter the ranks of Christian preachers. Before experiencing that change in his religious life which determined him to accept the sacred profession, he spent three years in a lawyer's office. As a first step to the ministry he entered college at New Brunswick, and in due time became a graduate of New York University. His first pastorate was at Belleville, N. J., but his first success was achieved at Syracuse, N. Y. From there he went to Philadelphia. He developed a peculiar style. Many called it irreverent, but there is no question that its vigor, directness and anecdotal quality, aided by lavish gestures, greatly interested his hearers.

Dr. Talmage was called to the pastorate of the Central Presbyterian Tabernacle, Brooklyn, in 1869, when the affairs of the church were not in a flourishing condition. The influence of his sensational preaching soon increased the number of members, so that in 1871 it was necessary to enlarge the building. The improvements had scarcely been completed when fire destroyed the structure. In 1874 a new tabernacle was completed and opened for service. This building had a seating capacity for 5000 persons, and was the largest Presbyterian church in the country. This structure was destroyed later. Dr. Talmage, after sending out many letters requesting money to rebuild the church, took his departure for the Holy Land, where he remained until the church was nearly finished. This structure also seated 5000 persons.

After serving the church for twenty-five years Dr. Talmage without warning concluded a most eloquent sermon one evening by announcing his resignation, and later accepted a call from Washington on September 26, 1895. He preached a formal farewell sermon on October 6th in the Lafayette Avenue Church, in Brooklyn, expressing his regret at leaving the pastorate of the Brooklyn Tabernacle, with which he had been associated so long. He accepted the co-pastorate of the First Presbyterian Church in Washington on October 8th, and, after serving four years, resigned on March 16, 1899.

Talmage, like Beecher, was a popular lecturer for many years. He commanded good prices, as he was always sure to draw an audience. When the lecture system began to languish Talmage devised the syndicate plan of printing his sermons. They were sent out to a score of American newspapers and printed every Monday morning. It has been estimated that Talmage thus spoke to over 2,000,000 people every week.

Talmage wrote a number of valuable books, among which are "Crumbs Swept Up," "Sports That Kill," "Abominations of Modern Society," "Live Coals," "Shots on Sundry Targets," "Life of Christ," "From Manger to Throne," and "The Pathway of Life." Of the latter work more than 300,000 copies were sold. "The Marriage Ring," published some years ago, was published in every shape and form possible in England and Canada, and was translated into many of the languages in Europe.

Dr. Talmage was married three times, and all of his children save the eldest son, named after his father, survive him.

COMPLAINT FROM HAWAII

Editor Evening Bulletin:—We hope Baldwin, Dillingham and Thurston, the organizers or promoters of the Kihel Plantation Co. are satisfied with the present outlook of this plantation for that is more than we can say; as this new bond issue seems to us to be another milestone about the neck of this unfortunate affair. We had supposed that this $500,000 was to be used to develop this plantation and to put it on a paying basis, instead of being used to pay off the indebtedness. And so instead of dividends, as we had fondly hoped, the bulk of this money is to go into the capacious maw of the promoters and agents. We had supposed that when Dillingham received his $200,000 for promoting it and Baldwin and Thurston their fabulous price for their land, they had something of real value to offer the public, instead of this one horse affair. However, there are men sanguine enough to believe that this plantation, notwithstanding its many drawbacks, will come out all right.

There is said to be this in its favor; first, that there will be no rent to pay, which means a saving of $40,000 to $50,000 per year; second, that the soil is good and will yield seven tons of sugar per acre, and perhaps more. Third, that the water is all right, and that there is a reasonable certainty of its getting a sufficient supply; fourth, that the cane can be milled at a reasonable price, and that there is a prospect of cutting down expenses.

That it is necessary to cut down expenses no one will question, particularly when it is reported for a crop of 1796 tons of sugar, the operating expenses at Kihel was $394,617.45 an amount sufficient if properly handled to raise a crop of 8000 to 9000 tons of sugar, or at least that is about what it would cost on this island to raise that amount. It is evident that if it cost more than $100,000 for operating expenses for raising 2000 tons of sugar, there will be nothing in it for the stockholders. This would be $50 per ton of sugar and should, if everything is conducted on an economical plane, never be exceeded, excepting in some great emergency or unexpected disaster. The fact that some of the poorest plantations produce sugar for less than this amount proves this.

Again, I maintain that for every million dollars a plantation is capitalized for, it should produce 5000 tons of sugar per year. And at this rate, the natural output for Kihel plantation should be 15,000 tons of sugar per year. The fact that this same of the poorest plantations on this island produce each year over 4000 tons of sugar with a capitalization of only $500,000, and which is equal to 8000 tons of sugar for a capitalization of one million, shows that 5000 is a very low estimate and that 8000 would be nearer the mark, if everything were conducted in a perfect manner. When Oukala plantation, one of the poorest on the island can produce 4000 to 5000 tons of sugar per year on a capitalization of $500,000 it is time for some of the good places, that so much is said about, to wake up.

In the past too much money has been paid out, or rather thrown away and wasted, not only at Kihel but on most of the other new plantations and too little regard has been paid to the rights and interests of the shareholders.

Money has been lavished on wells that were so poorly situated as to exclude almost any idea of getting water, and the same may be said of pumps, and other machinery and almost every other undertaking.

Now this idea that money can be thrown away in this manner will have to be changed. The idea that a manager should get $10,000 to $12,000 per year for conducting an unsuccessful plantation is another thing that will have to go.

If the sugar industry is to be continued on these islands, there will have to be established a very different state of things from those of the present time, and not only will more economical measures have to be put in force, but every item, and every detail of work, or expense will have to be scrutinized, and carefully weighed so that no wasteful expenditure may occur in any department. And more labor saving devices will have to be used, and everything done by strict business principles and on the most economical plan.

SWITZERLAND AND ITALY ARE AT ODDS

Berne, Switzerland, April 19.—Diplomatic relations between Switzerland and Italy have been ruptured. This action arises from the refusal of Switzerland to give satisfaction regarding an article published in Geneva, insinuating the memory of the murdered King Humbert.

The Bundesrath has sent the following communication to Parliament: Regrettable misunderstandings have occurred between us and Signor Silvestrelli, the Italian Minister. We have felt constrained to request the Italian Government, in the interests of the good relations of the two countries, to recall Signor Silvestrelli. The Italian Government, having refused to do so, we broke off relations with Signor Silvestrelli, whereupon the Italian Government, on its part, has broken off relations with our Minister at Rome. We shall publish the documents relating to this conflict.

The article which led to the reference appeared in an anarchist sheet, published in Geneva. Signor Silvestrelli demanded that the authorities prosecute the paper, but the Swiss Government replied it could not act without a complaint being formally lodged by the Italian Government. Italy declined to adopt this course and the correspondence following finally led to the rupture of diplomatic relations.

Cortelyou May Go Into Cabinet

Washington, April 2.—Notwithstanding the fact that the House Committee on Commerce have begun hearings on the bill creating a Department of Commerce, the opinion is strong among Representatives on both sides of the House that the bill may be allowed to die on the calendar. It was stated at the House of Representatives today, by one of the most influential Republican members, that it is now the President's desire to promote his secretary, George B. Cortelyou, to a Cabinet place should the Department of Commerce bill become a law.

Bourne, Lieutenant Miller and nine bluejackets were instantly killed yesterday afternoon by the bursting of a 12 inch gun on board the British first-class battleship Mars, during gun practice off Bere Haven. In addition several men were injured by the explosion. The breach of the gun blew out after it had twice missed fire. The bodies of two men who were sighting the gun were scattered to pieces and blown overboard. The injured seamen were brought ashore here today.
